WELCOME TO ESSENS

When we founded ESSENS ten years ago, I knew that it would not be limited only to cosmetics. I also knew that bringing new food supplements to the congested market was risky. Nevertheless, we have thrown ourselves into it and we are currently enjoying a rich display of such products that exceed similar products on the market thanks to their high efficiency. The success was mainly due to the collaboration with the leading experts amongst technologists and scientists in the field of food, pharmacology and biotechnology, who help us to increase awareness of the function of the human body and the impact of long-term use of food supplements.

ALOE VERA

ALOE VERA BARBADENSIS MILLER

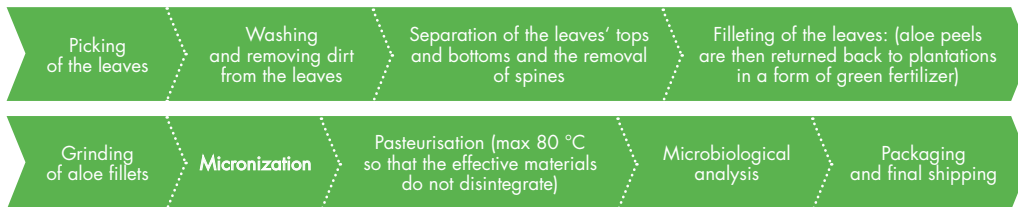

(Aloe vera) may grow up to 100 cm tall and is a succulent perennial herb with a short stem and a rosette of sparsely growing, spiny leaves. The origin of the plant is mostly attributed to the Nile basin, but is now cultivated in climatically conforming regions around the world. The pulp of the leaves is formed by colourless cells with a gel-like content that has clinically proven health benefits and is therefore used as a food supplement and has now found its place in the cosmetics industry.

Aloe Vera Gel contains amino acids, vitamins, minerals, enzymes, polysaccharides and many other beneficial substances. The values of these substances are not constant and vary, depending mainly on the growth conditions. On these grounds, ESSENS products are made exclusively from the Aloe Vera Barbadensis Miller and grown in the BIO quality of the natural environment and non-contaminated areas of Jaumave, Mexico. The plants are watered only by rain or spring water from the mountains without the use of fertilizers, insecticides or herbicides. They are not genetically modified.

The Totaloe process - this revolutionary way of processing aloe vera allows to maintain preservation of 200 active ingredients and more than 75 different nutrients. It combines traditional manual processes with additional phases ensuring the perfect quality of processed gel.

Micronization - one of the ways to increase the biological availability of medicines, natural substances, vitamins and minerals. The raw material is micronized into particles only a few micrometers in diameter. This increases the surface area of the resulting material and enables faster absorption in the body, increasing the effectiveness of the food supplement.

HI-TECH PRODUCTION - TOP REVOLUTIONARY TECHNOLOGICAL PROCESSES

- Micronization - is a method by which pharmaceuticals, natural substances, vitamins and minerals increase their bioavailability. It is the progressive reduction of raw material to a particle size of several micrometers. The resulting substance, thanks to its larger molecular surface, creates conditions for the improvement and acceleration of dissolution in the body and ultimately, a higher efficiency food supplement.
- Inhibition of enzymes - a process which results in the reduced activity of enzymes - proteins produced by living organisms which act as a catalyst to bring about many biological processes. Slowing the activity of enzymes leads to an ideal dissolution time of the tablet, natural ingredients pepper and curcumin perform this function perfectly.

- Multilayer coating of a tablet / pellet - is a unique technology which first appeared on the world market for the ESSENS Home Pharmacy products. Successively depositing several layers with different contents of active substances, the dissolution of the tablet is optimally timed, which leads to revolutionary effects that can be very difficult to achieve through conventional methods.

ESSENS HOME PHARMACY FOOD SUPPLEMENTS ARE BEING USED ACCORDING TO BIORHYTHM

WHAT IS DETOXIFICATION OF AN ORGANISM?

Detoxification is the process by which the body removes the harmful effects of toxic substances and toxic gases. Among these toxic substances are cigarette smoke, chimney smoke, exhausts fumes, pesticides, heavy metals, harmful paints, improper cosmetics, toxins in beverages and foods, toxic medicaments, plastic softeners, hormones but there are many more. Although the human body possesses the ability to exclude the majority of toxic substances, it is beneficial, from time to time, to help remove the harmful products of metabolism, purify the blood and strengthen the detoxification organs, including the liver, lungs, intestines, kidneys and skin itself.

WHY IS DETOXIFICATION IMPORTANT?

Every season brings a different degree of burden to our bodies, especially in winter, which brings the biggest flooding of toxins to our bodies. The human organism is weakened and languished. Detoxification promotes an overall higher metabolism, help for the immune and nervous systems and brings the body relief.

ESSENS DETOX

The basis for the three-month ESSENS detox is ESSENS Home Pharmacy product line and combination of products:

1x ESSENS ES'Pure Start, 2x ESSENS ES'Pure, 3x ESSENS Flow'EN and 1x ESSENS Clea'NS.

The uniqueness of the ESSENS Detox is in the synergy between our top products. These have themselves excellent results in specific applications, but the effectiveness of the four products in complex treatment does not accumulate, but instead multiplies.

ESSYNBIO

DESIGNED TO INDUCE THE SYNERGY BETWEEN OUR BODY AND THE MICROCOSM INSIDE US

Synbiotics are products combining probiotics and prebiotics, the effect of which is based on synergy, i.e. synergism, where the result is MULTIPLE times bigger than just a sum of individual component effects.

$$\text{SYNBIOTICS} = 1 + 1 > 2$$

ESSYNBIO Microbiome Caps has been developed by ESSENS Scientific Board team, i.e. leading Czech experts, technologists and researchers in the field of biotechnology, pharmacology and food industry. They have been working on the aspects of probiotic and prebiotic substances for many years and their valuable knowledge is implemented and published in professional publications around the world.

WHY DO WE NEED SYNBIOTICS?

Because 70% of the immune system is hidden in the digestive tract. There are over a trillion bacteria in a human organism, which an average of 1 – 1.5 kg in human intestines. The amount of bacterial cells in our intestines is 10 times higher than the number of cells that form a human body. This so-called microbiome manages and controls our lives much more than we would be willing to admit. It fundamentally controls the immunity, obesity and psyche, and is also related to many diseases. Synbiotics have a very positive impact on human organism and their regular use is suitable across all generations.

ESSENS COLLAGEN AND ESSENS COLLAGEN FISH

- Food supplements in the form of delicious fruit gel with maracuja and orange flavour
- Active ingredients - animal and plant collagen in an unbeatable amount of 7 000 mg, Acerola extract (vitamin C) and L-tryptophan
- The most valuable component is NATIVE (undisturbed by heat, chemicals or enzymes while being processed) unhydrolyzed type II plant-based collagen from acacia that does not contain any pathogenic factors and preserves its natural structure, the amino acid sequence is exactly the same as that of human collagen
- Maximum efficiency of animal collagen is ensured by hydrolysis (a decomposition reaction through water), because collagen of animal origin is poorly soluble in water and the human body would not be able to use it to the maximum efficiency in the organism
- More than 20 different types of collagen are currently known, the most important being: type I collagen (occupies 90% of all collagen, found in skin, tendons, bones and ligaments), type II collagen (found in cartilage cell mass), or type III collagen (similar to type I, occurs in soft tissues, eg. smooth muscles, nerve fibers, but also in hematopoietic tissues and epitheliums)
- Acerola is a shrub or tree, whose fruits are the richest natural sources of vitamin C, which is indispensable for the production of collagen in the body
- Amino acid L-tryptofan is needed for every body cell and promotes collagen production
- The gel does not contain artificial colours, gluten and lactose

COLLAGEN FORMS THE BASIC FOUNDATION OF EDIBLE TISSUES AND PLAYS A SIGNIFICANT ROLE IN ORGANISM AGING, ESSENS COLLAGEN WITH ITS VOLUME OF 7,000 mg OF COLLAGEN DOESN'T HAVE COMPETITION ON THE MARKET AND YOU HAVE STARTED RENAMING IT "THE ELIXIR OF YOUTH"

ESSENS COLLAGEN

LACTOFERRIN

WHAT IS LACTOFERRIN?

Lactoferrin is a multifunctional protein from the family of transferrins (carrier of trace elements such as iron, copper and zinc), which occur naturally in the human body. It is presented in exocrine secretions, particularly in blood plasma and white blood cells.

Lactoferrin can also be found, in small amounts, in all bodily fluids and is in fact part of innate immunity. Lactoferrin is naturally occurring meaning it is recognised and accepted without rejection. Furthermore no resistance has yet been recognised. Lactoferrin is effective for all of us, regardless of gender and age.

ESSENS Lactoferrin is obtained from bovine milk. The reason being is, it's most similar to human milk and has the same effects during comparative tests. The human and bovine lactoferrin differs in only 2 amino acids (it consists of 700 amino acids), while for individual humans this difference can vary up to 8 amino acids.

Lactoferrin has a broad range of activity and has a positive effect on the human body. Its main function is bound and maintains constant and equal levels of iron in the body.

At the same time, lactoferrin possesses the following characteristics:

- Antimicrobial (acts against microorganisms)
- Antibacterial (acts against bacteria)
- Antiviral (acts against viruses)
- Antifungal (acts against fungi)
- Antioxidant (protects the organism against the harmful effects of chemicals that we face every day)

- Acts antiparasitic
- Acts against cancer-causing cells
- Acts against dangerous radiation
- Has an anti-inflammatory effect

The nativity (remaining undamaged by heat, enzymes and chemicals during manufacture) of lactoferrin is a very important parameter. We emphasise that our lactoferrin is treated with sophisticated technology and is extracted from fresh skimmed milk and not from whey, which is a waste material in dairy production.

Another important factor contributing to high quality is the degree of saturation by iron (but also copper or zinc) due to optimal regulation and maintaining the constant level of trace elements in the body. Under normal circumstances the saturation of lactoferrin fluctuates between 10 – 30%. If lactoferrin is saturated more than 80%, its antimicrobial and anti-inflammatory effect decreases. ESSENS Lactoferrin passes through a strict control of saturation by iron and its content is a mere 23%, which is very low.

The lactoferrin molecule has another great advantage - it is more stable against acids and enzymes. Any inflammation in the body is accompanied by acidification of inflamed tissue and many active materials (such as antibiotics) lose their effectiveness in these surroundings. But lactoferrin, even within secretions, is still active and effective.

WOUND HEALING ON THE SKIN SURFACE OR ON MUCOUS MEMBRANES IS A COMPLICATED BIOLOGICAL PROCESS THAT CAN BE MEDICALLY CATEGORISED INTO 5 STAGES:

1. Haemostasis, the automatic reactive ability of the damaged organism to stop bleeding, a very demanding and effective reaction from the body.
2. Reparative inflammation is the stage of the activation of numerous materials and growth factors that repair or replace damaged or injured tissue.
3. Granulation is the process of forming granulation tissue which progressively fills the wound from its edges, new vessels and a network of collagen are formed.
4. Epithelization is the process of replication and migration of epithelial cells into the unhealed areas of skin or mucous membrane which leads to the formation of a new covering tissue, which replaces the provisional one.
5. Wound remodelling is the final stage when the adequate strength and adaptation to conditions of natural processes within the body is established in the new tissue.

The research of medical specialists has come to the conclusion that inflammation is the entrance process for wound healing. Excessively long periods of inflammation or a high inflammatory reaction can lead to poor wound healing and can be a cause of complications in the processes leading to recovery.

ESSENS Lactoferrin Unguentum helps to initiate the first stage of inflammation, and contributes to finishing this stage quickly. It then helps the body into the next phase of healing, whilst additionally contributing to the migration of newly created and healthy skin cells and connective tissue cells for fixation into new, connective networks.

ESSENS Lactoferrin Unguentum belongs among the products that support a damp wound healing. It is connected with other positive influences such as the acceleration of the granulation and epithelization processes. A state with constant pH and temperature is maintained in the wound. The ointment prevents the penetration of infection, limits the activity of reactive oxygen radicals and thanks to the absence of water in the ointment-base, the wound is not macerated.

MONOLAURIN

The new ESSENS Monolaurin product line is represented by only one product, ESSENS Monolaurin Premium food supplement. However, its composition and effectiveness are so exceptional that it rightly deserves its own product line.

Monolaurin is a pure lipid extract obtained from coconut oil. It occurs naturally in coconut oil (up to 47%), but it is also present in breast milk (about 6%). In the last two decades, it has been the subject of many scientific researches, where experts have investigated possible applications in food, cosmetics and medicine on the basis of very beneficial effects. The potential benefits of monolaurin stem from its immune, antibacterial, antifungal and antiviral properties.

ESSENS Scientific board has been handling the research, development and laboratory tests of Monolaurin for three years, with the support of the so-called small patent, Utility Model No. 33 526, registered at the Industrial Property Office of the Czech Republic dated 3rd of September 2019. The goal was to create a food supplement that would have antiviral effects in the human body.

ESSENS CBD CAPSULES

- Food supplement was developed and manufactured under pharmaceutical supervision
- The active substance CBD comes from industrial hemp and for maximum bioavailability in the body was supplemented with black pepper extract and vitamin B12
- CBD also known as cannabidiol is one of the main cannabinoids contained in the cannabis plant. It is a non-psychoactive component with significant therapeutic potential for a number of health and psychic problems.
